STOP THE BADGER SNARING SLAUGHTER

We, the undersigned, call on Ireland's Agriculture Minister to stop the slaughter of tens of thousands of badgers as part of a so-called TB Eradication Scheme.

FACTS

More than 27,000 badgers have been killed by Ireland's Department of Agriculture since 1995. A wire snare holds the helpless badger in excruciating pain until it is killed by gunshot. That's provided the animal has not already strangled itself in a futile attempt to escape. When nursing female badgers are snared and shot, their cubs are left to starve to death underground.
